

Healthy soils workshop

Managing local soil health issues for sustainable pasture and crop production

This workshop is an opportunity for local landholders to better understand key drivers of soil health and learn how to interpret soil test results, following a local soil sampling program. Landholders will benefit from specialist advice to better match nutrient inputs to pasture, crop and soil requirements in grazing enterprises.

Presenter David Hall is a local agricultural consultant with extensive experience in plant nutrition and soil fertility, who works with farmers across cropping, horticulture, fodder, and pasture production enterprises. This workshop is part of the Grazing Best Practices program.

Topics will include:

- How to interpret soil test results.
- Results from recent local soil testing program.
- Implications for management and nutrition requirements for improved pasture and crop production and soil health.
